

Invitation to members of the Anglesey Antiquarian Society

NEW NEOLITHIC EVIDENCE FROM ANGLESEY

Saturday 6th APRIL 2019, 1.30-5pm

Jane Kenney : The Neolithic Period at Parc Cybi, Holyhead : A long house joins the tomb at Trefignath

Cat Rees : Excavations at Llanfaethlu Neolithic 'Village'

Frances Lynch : A Mass of new Pottery in Puzzling Pits

Venue: Lecture Hall 2, Pontio, Bangor University, Deiniol Road, Bangor, LL57 2TQ

Pontio is in the centre of Bangor about 10 mins walk, straight down the road as you come out of the station.

Trains (c. 8.20-9.50am) from Cardiff, London, Birmingham and Manchester can get you there in time -- and return you!

By car, take the Bangor turn off J11 of A55 and follow A5 into town. Pontio is on the right, directly below the university building on the hill; car parks on left (access ahead via Asda roundabout).

There are cafes and snack bars in the building. There is a £5.00 fee, at the door

For further details and to register your interest, please contact f.m.lynch@axis-connect.com

This is an afternoon of lectures organised by the Cambrian Archaeological Association and the Prehistoric Society to showcase the very important new evidence for Neolithic houses and pottery found in Anglesey over the last decade. The work at Parc Cybi is part of a huge multi-period excavation just outside Holyhead, now nearing publication. The Llanfaethlu site is a surprising discovery of no less than four rectangular houses on the site of a new school on the north coast of the island. Both sites have produced a lot of Early Neolithic pottery and also a great deal of Middle and Late Neolithic pottery from pits.